DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

1. Applicant's election with traverse of claims 1-4 in the reply filed on 5/2/05 is acknowledged. The traversal is on the ground(s) that the two species are related. This is not found persuasive because the embodiment containing the conversion of the Ti to TiN does not have to be applied to prevention of a contaminant within a layer of ARC.

The requirement is still deemed proper and is therefore made FINAL.

Specification

2. The specification has not been checked to the extent necessary to determine the presence of all possible minor errors. Applicant's cooperation is requested in correcting any errors of which applicant may become aware in the specification.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

3. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

4. Claim 1 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Mueller et al. (US 5,427,666, dated 6/27/95).

Art Unit: 2812

Mueller shows the method as claimed in figure 3B and corresponding text, with TiN (ARC) 58 and Ti layer 60, which protects the layer 58 from contaminants. Nitrogen plasma is used to form the TiN.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

5. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

6. The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

7. This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

Art Unit: 2812

8. Claims 2-4 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Mueller et al. (US 5, 427,666, dated 6/27/95) in view of Ting et al. (US 6,399,508, dated 6/4/02).

Mueller shows the method substantially as claimed and as described in the previous paragraphs.

Mueller lacks anticipation only in not teaching that the contaminant may be fluorine and that the application of the nitrogen plasma increases a temperature of the semiconductor device to approx. 400 degrees C.

Ting teaches etching of Ti and TiN in a fluorine atmosphere to pattern the layers.

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art that the Ti layer over the TiN ARC, as taught in Mueller, would protect the TiN layer from the damage caused by subsequent patterning using fluorine, with the motivation that the Ti layer would act as a barrier to the fluorine atoms.

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to have increased a temperature of the semiconductor device to approx. 400 degrees C by the application of the nitrogen plasma, in the method of Mueller, with the motivation that the plasma nitridation process may be performed conventionally while heating the substrate to such a temperature.

Conclusion

9. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. See the PTO Form 892.
